PROJECT SUMMARY

Northeast State Community College will use ARISE funding to develop a plan for a regional aviation education network to address a critical shortage of aviation maintenance technicians in Central Appalachia. Developed in collaboration with partners across 27 counties in Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia, the plan will help the grantee expand their aviation technology program to train more students to enter Appalachia's aviation industry.

Northeast State brings $53,083 in matching funds. This project will result in an implementation plan at the end of the one-year performance period.
